Community Learning Center : Why and How ?

One of the serious weakness of Literacy and Non -Formal Education in Nepal is that it is adhoc and one shot affair. Usually literacy class is conducted for six or nine months and then they disappear after the program. Similar is the case with out of school education classes. Due to the lack of a permanent institute at the village level, Literacy and Non-Formal Education (NFE) program could not provide functional education based on needs and problems of villagers. We often say that the Literacy and NFE program should be need based of the people and it should help the villagers to identify their real problems and help them to solve the problems through learning new knowledge and skills related to health, cleanliness, nutrition, family planning, environment etc. Similarly the functional literacy program should help the villagers to learn new skills and technology to improve their profession and their earning capacities.

Therefore, the concept of a Community Learning Center (CLC) came about exactly to solve those problems. Actually CLC is a multipurpose institute of the people, by the people, and for the people to promote learning new knowledge, skills and behaviors to improve people's quality of life and living standard.

At present many countries in Asia have set up such Community Learning Centers (CLCs). In Nepal a few CLCs have been set up. Some of them are showing good example what could be achieved through CLCs. This issue of the Literacy Watch Bulletin tries to explain various aspect of CLCs, so that people could promote more CLCs in Nepal.
What is Community Learning Center?

"A community Learning Center is a Local Education Institute outside the formal education system, for villages or urban areas usually set up and managed by local people to provide various learning opportunities for community development and improvement of people's quality of life."

The definition has important implications. Learning Centers play a key role in personal and societal development. THEY ARE AN EFFECTIVE MECHANISM FOR EMPOWERING INDIVIDUALS AND PROMOTING COMMUNITY DEVELOPMENT. They achieve this providing opportunity for all members of society to engage in lifelong learning. This idea is illustrated below in figure.

Learning Centers would tend to have the following characteristics:

- They cater for life long learning
- They reach out to the community
- They promote the development of a community
- Their programs are responsive to and reflective of the needs and aspirations of members of the community
- They draw their mandate from the community and serve the community

These ideas are summarized in the figure below which contrasts a formal education institution such as a school with a typical Learning Center.

Community Learning Center (CLC) and its Functions

The CLC could function as the venue for education and training activities, for community information and resource services, for community development, coordination and networking. The main idea is that a CLC is a revolving mechanism, which could aim at empowerment, social transformation and quality of life through lifelong learning, resource mobilization and social action. The activities should be flexible, participatory and allow for leadership to emerge from any member of the community, while support mechanisms are also made available through strengthened coordination, networking and partnership.
