

Reflecting on online activities 26th October 2024

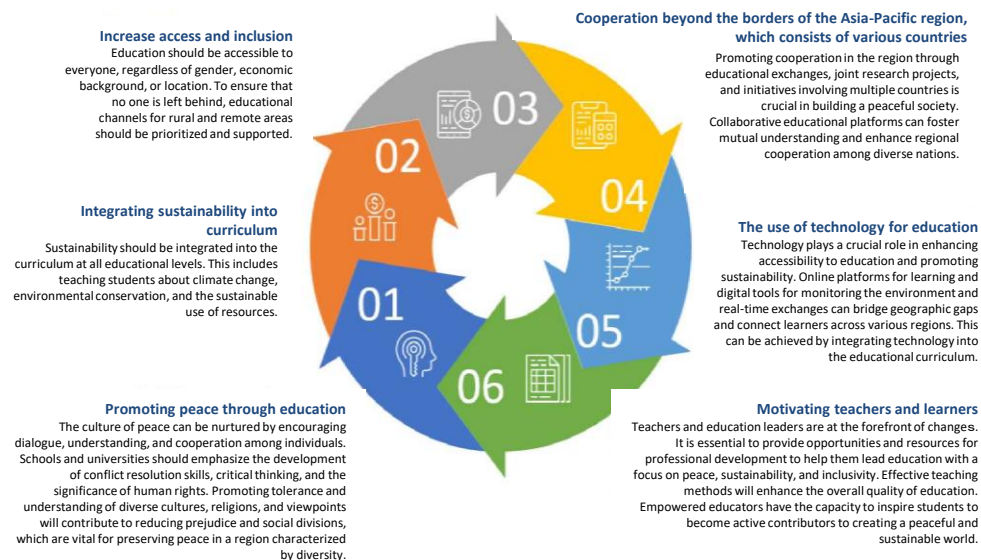

Moving forward to build a peaceful and sustainable society in the Asia-Pacific region through education requires a firm commitment to fostering critical thinking, cultural understanding, and caring for the environment. Education is a crucial foundation for promoting peace, as it provides individuals with the knowledge, skills, and values necessary to address regional issues. Integrating sustainable development principles into curriculum and supporting cross-border cooperation will help equip future generations with the tools to create societies that prioritize equality, unity, and environmental responsibility. Furthermore, promoting an inclusive educational system that caters to diverse communities will help reduce social gaps and encourage tolerance and respect. In this way, education not only serves as a vehicle for individual growth but also as a powerful accelerator for regional transformation to ensure a better future for the Asia-Pacific.

Activities in Japan 5th -11th November 2024

2024 Invitation Programme in Japan for teachers from Thailand 5th – 11th November 2024 [Asia – Pacific Cultural Centre for UNESCO : ACCU]

Supported by MEXT

unesco

ACTION PLAN

2024 Invitation Programme in Japan for teachers from Thailand 2024

1

Objective of the Programme: The primary objectives of the educational exchange programme between Japan and Thailand are to foster cultural understanding between the two countries, promote high-quality educational knowledge, and enhance cooperation in both education and research. The programme aims to facilitate the exchange of academic knowledge and experiences across various fields, including technology, culture, and society.

2

Long-Term Goals : To enhance understanding and build strong educational relationships between Thailand and Japan, promote learning for students and educational personnel in diverse environments, develop research cooperation on sustainability and sustainable development, and establish educational networks for the exchange of information and experiences.

3

Step 1: Plan, Prepare, and Select Target Groups; Select schools or universities from both countries that are interested in hosting the initial meeting. Organize a meeting between representatives from Thailand and Japan to discuss the goals, details, and plans of the exchange programme.
Step 2: Implement the Exchange: Teachers from Thailand will visit Japan to learn about the educational culture, while teachers from Japan will come to Thailand to explore the country's education system, technology, culture, and society.
Step 3: Evaluate Results and Follow-Up: Write a report on the outcomes of the exchange, providing recommendations for adjustments and improvements to enhance the programme in the future.
Conclusion: Summarize the results of the exchange programme between the two countries for further development.

4

Expected Results: Learners and educational personnel will gain valuable experiences by learning about diverse cultures. Development of life skills essential for adapting to a diverse and constantly changing society. Enhanced understanding and strengthened educational relationships between Japan and Thailand. Promotion of collaborative education, sustainable research, and development with a focus on responsibility.

5

Essential Budget and Resources: Support from governmental institutes of both countries.
 -Assistance from educational organizations and various foundations.
 -Budget for travel expenses, educational materials, and related activities.

6

Conclusion: The educational exchange programme between Japan and Thailand has great potential to enhance international understanding, promote the development and learning of diverse cultures, and foster cooperation in education and research between the two countries. By emphasizing sustainable development, the programme contributes to building a society that supports a happy and prosperous future for all.

